Miscellaneous Information

On August 11, 2021, Johnson left two children unattended in a vehicle while he entered a casino located in Philadelphia. He approached the main cage and handed $500 and his identification to the cashier. Approximately three minutes after Johnson had left his vehicle, a security officer walked past the vehicle and saw the children in the car. The security officer then went to the casino to get a security patrol officer. While he was getting the patrol officer, a Casino Compliance Representative (“CCR”) walked past the vehicle and noticed the children. The CCR also flagged down a security patrol officer. Approximately two minutes later, Johnson returned, entered the vehicle, closed the door and refused to provide identification. He began backing the car out of the parking spot but then stopped to speak with the CCR or security staff and claimed during that conversation that he went into the casino to use the bathroom. The CCR attempted to advise Johnson that he cannot leave minors unattended, but he left before he was told of the policy. The vehicle’s windows were down, and the doors were unlocked. Further, it was approximately 80 degrees Fahrenheit outside, and it was “sunny, hot, and humid, and a heat advisory was in effect.” The casino permanently banned Johnson as a result of this incident. Although the police were notified, Mr. Johnson was not criminally charged.
