Miscellaneous Information On April 7, 2022 Quidetto reported for her first day of employment in a limited capacity, while her application for a Non-Gaming Employee Registration was pending and entered an Executive open office with a casino employee, in a casino located in Pittsburgh. Quidetto and the other employee went separate ways and began to collect trash from offices and cubicles. Quidetto entered one of the cubicles, opened a drawer and removed an object from it, then placed it in her pants pocket. She then proceeded to look into a bag hanging off the side of another cubicle, then went into another cubicle and tried to open a locked drawer. Quidetto then approached a desk and stole earbuds off of it. On April 8, 2022, staff from the Executive office reported to security that her earbuds were missing. Security notified surveillance who also received a separate report of missing earbuds. While Surveillance did their review, another report was made that someone was missing their medication. After police reviewed the footage, Quidetto was terminated from her position and later returned the two stolen earbuds.
